RAJNAX JUNG PANDEY

Time moves so quickly. I am amazed how swiftly two years passed studying at Inha University. Two years can change a person a lot and I made many memories and experiences which have polished and brought a shine to me.

Lectures were quite a novel experience at Inha. I got the opportunity to meet a lot of international friends. I had some courses where entire class was based on a project, where I work on topics of my interest or work in small groups. Sometimes the classes would be half English and Half Korean.

My lab was quite large, having many International and Korean students. The working hours of my lab members are quite varied. Some are at the lab before the break of the dawn, whereas some arrive after lunch hours to work the whole night. This gave independence and control on own schedule and the students carried their research in their own way. Also, the lab had lots of outings and workshops to enhance friendship and coordination.

On Saturday morning, I used to play football with Korean friends. Rain or Snow did not bother. In summer heat, I played until drenched in sweat, while in winter in minus temperatures, we used a shovel to clear the ground. Later we used to eat barbeques in the back gate.

Inha Cultural Street also adds exotic and vivacious dimension to Inha experience. There are lots of cafes, restaurants, pubs, and bars. Street performers and fortune tellers are a common sight. Girls dressed immaculately flock the many cosmetic shops dotted around. The prices are relatively cheap and I could play free PlayStation games at “Hands up” or enjoy a game of billiards.

The spectrum of activities enjoyed by students at University can be immense and invigorating. From teams of every sport to dance, music, science to anything that can be imagined. On a lazy day, I could just walk by the Inha Lake with the “Inha dragon” flying in the sky and enjoy a cup of tea and talk about life and philosophy. Also, I enjoyed the responsibility of Inha Student Ambassador for a year, in which I could enjoy hosting culture day and help newcomers settle into the university life.

Given its reputation in engineering and its pleasant and friendly location, Inha University was an easy choice. The university was well connected to Seoul but also was set aside from the bustling hubbub of the capital. The important thing about going to University is getting an education but social life is also important. Graduate studies was about garnering new perceptions, moving out of my comfort zone and finding new aspirations. Also, I felt it's important to unlearn and relearn moving ahead in life.

Lastly, I want to thank Inha International Center for providing this opportunity to share my life in Inha. Hope you have a good time too.

sitting next to the peaceful lake found in the center of the campus, walking under the cherry blossoms during spring time, meeting friends and sharing my difficulties and happy moments with them is helping me a lot to cope better with my student life here in Inha University.

Inha cultural street at the back gate of the University has all the shops that makes a student's life easier. Shops like pharmacies, restaurants with delicious, coffee shops, marts, game centers for relaxation, etc., helped a lot to reduce our movement to the main city for such services. Anytime I wanted to catch some fresh air and have some cooling off moments, I go to Wolmido, a sea side and an amusement park near Inha.

Before moving here, I thought there was no way I could find interesting things to do in Incheon. However, I found out that Incheon is quite good place to live and study and

In September 2016, I started my master degree in Inha University. One thing I realized immediately when I got here was that the campus neither too small nor too big but had lots of modernized buildings, classrooms with nice lecturers, very impressive facilities such the school library, canteen with reasonable price meals, gym with membership fees, just to name a few. Another thing that I observed is that master students couldn't leave the lab on weekdays and because of this, my early days in Inha was tiring, difficult and stressful. However, also, I realized studying here is actually going on well because of the kind and understanding professors who help out, not only during lectures but also care about students' every day life in this foreign country.

As mentioned earlier, in my first semester, I had a difficult time and wanted to give up. This was especially because of the language barrier and also of the culture differences but I got lots of help from the people around me. This has made me to appreciate all my professors and seniors who have helped and taught me most of the things I now know. Also, I have had both good and tough days while studying here in Korea. Notwithstanding, my good days have always given me the strength to keep going and my difficult days, lessons and best ways to overcome any tough issue.

Therefore, I do cherish every single day of my student life here in Inha and have decided to make more precious memories while learning new things and living my student life meaningfully.

NHA UNIVERSITY

The number of students from Uzbekistan at Inha University is increasing year to year thanks to Inha University in Tashkent which is the branch of Inha University in our capital city.

Currently, from Uzbekistan, over 50 undergraduate students and 20 graduate students are taking a degree in various fields such as International School of Global Studies (ISGS), IT, Mathematical Science, Medicine, Business, Global E-Governance, FTA Policy and Business Consulting, English Literature and so on. Proudly, 3 IT students from Uzbekistan, graduated on previous semesters, are currently working in prestigious companies in Seoul.

Moreover, many students from Uzbekistan come to learn Korean language at Inha University, and after finishing the Korean language, they usually continue their undergraduate degree at Inha as well.

The recent good news regarding our community is Inha University Incheon Campus and Tashkent Campus (IUT) concluded an agreement of “3+1 Joint Program” in the last year. In the “3+1 Joint Program”, IUT students complete their 1st to 3rd year courses at IUT and take their 4th year courses at Inha University. They will take theoretical lecture courses as well as practical and field classes in Computer Science Engineering, Information and Communication Engineering, and other subjects. Last year 99 IUT students visited Inha University due to this joint project and went back their home with graduate diploma.

Of course, students from Uzbekistan spend time with each other over our traditional food during some special days such as festivals. In addition, we often play football at Inha stadium and visit some sightseeing.

As an Inha Student Ambassador, I would like our Uzbekistan community to increase and hope that YOU will be one of our members in near future.

EL SALVADOR

A small country with a big heart

Capital: San Salvador

Population: 6.34 million

Language: Spanish

Culture: Maya

Religion: Catholicism (47%), Protestantism (33%),
Atheism (17%), Other (3%)

Currency: USD Dollar (from 2001)

Located in the middle of America, El Salvador is a well-known country in Central America because of the variety of touristic locations and gastronomy. Called “The Tom Thumb of Americas” (El Pulgarcito de America in Spanish), this country has an area of only 21,041 km². However, despite its small territory, El Salvador contains many beautiful places to know; its year-long summer weather and the kindness of its inhabitants are the very representative aspects of this country.

After starting a Free Trade Agreement with USA, El Salvador’s main economic resource became the exportation of food, coffee, and clothing. Nowadays, remittances also represent a large amount of economic resources.

In terms of tourism, El Salvador is a complete tourist destination because of the diversity of natural tourist destinations. From wonderful mountains and forests to peaceful and amazing beaches of the Pacific Ocean, El Salvador counts with touristic destinations for everyone. The advantage of being a small country is the possibility to visit different locations like having an intensive walking at Volcano of Izalco in Santa Ana and admiring a beautiful sunset at Beach El Tunco in La Libertad within only 1 hour 40 mins by car (about 86km).

El Salvador also has many cultural spots all around the territory. It is possible to know more about its old Mayan Civilizations at places like Ruins of Tazumal (Santa Ana) and traditional art crafts at very cozy towns like Concepcion de Ataco (Ahuachapan). Moreover, El Salvador culture can be experienced in every national and departmental festivities that are held countrywide in different dates, as memorials to Maya traditions or in honor to the town’s Saints (coming from Catholic culture). During those festivities, the population enjoys traditional folklore like burning a Torito Pinto, and gastronomy like the most popular food in El Salvador is Pupusa; this is a tortilla made of corn flour and filled with beans, cheese, and meat that can be found anywhere anytime all around the country.

Food, culture, folklore, tourism, El Salvador welcomes both foreign and national tourists to enjoy its beautiful sites, and create memorable experiences at El Pulgarcito de America.

Akwaaba GHANA

Allow me take you on a journey, three hundred and eighty miles from the Equator, to a country located at the western part of Africa. Bordering on the Gulf of Guinea, bounded by Côte d'Ivoire to the west, Burkina Faso to the north, Togo to the east, and the Atlantic Ocean to the south. A place known by few but cherished by many, a place where the population is estimated at more than twenty five million and on a total land area of 238,533 sq. km (92,098 sq. miles). This destination has English as its official language but amazingly also has over eighty traditional languages that are used on a daily basis by the natives. Be sure to carry lighter clothes as this place has a tropical climate with an all year round temperature of 21-32 degree Celsius. I welcome you to take this journey with me to this wonderful country called Ghana.

The land of Cocoa and gold (Ghana is the second top producer of cocoa in the world and the second largest producer of gold in Africa). The name "Ghana" actually translates into "Warrior King", the title giving to the then kings of the medieval Ghana Empire. However, prior to colonialism, the actual name for today's Ghana was still not known. The best way to argue this may have been that Ghana then was not a national unit and therefore had no unique name. Major parts of the territory then were controlled by the Ashantes (the major tribe in Ghana). Modern-day Ghana, which gained its independence on March 6, 1957, consists primarily of the former Gold Coast. The drive for independence was led by nationalist and Pan-African leader Kwame Nkrumah, who viewed Ghana's sovereignty as being important not only for the Ghanaian people But for all of Africa, saying "Our independence is meaningless unless it is linked up with the total liberation of the African continent." Indeed, more than 30 other African countries, spurred by Ghana's example, followed suit and declared their own independence within the next decade. Ghana is now held up as an example of successful economic recovery and political reform in Africa.

Ghana's administrative capital is the coastal city of Accra. Originally founded on the site of several Ga settlements, Accra developed into a prosperous trading hub; today it serves as the major commercial and educational hub for the county. Kumasi, another prominent commercial center, is located in the south-central part of the country. Known as the "Garden City of West Africa," Kumasi is also the seat of the king of the Asante (one of the over 100 ethnic groups in Ghana) people and boost of the biggest market known in the whole of West Africa. The typical Ghanaian dishes in the south include cassava and plantain and in the northern parts of the country, the main dish include millet and sorghum. Yam, maize and beans are used across the country as staple foods.

When in Ghana, be sure to check out these places of interest; the Volta Lake (one of the largest manmade lakes in the world), our six national parks and many other smaller nature reserves, which were set up to help protect Ghana's wildlife (over 650 butterfly species in the Kakum National Park, monkeys, elephants, crocodiles, different species of birds etc.), the kente (Ghana's national traditional cloth) textile city (Bonwire), our numerous beautiful beaches or the booming central city of Accra. Also, try and catch a game of soccer (main sport activity in the country) or attend one or more of the colorful festivals celebrated all year round in the country.

Before I sign off, let me give you a tip. When in Ghana, instead of saying "thank you", try saying "medaase". This equally translates to "thank you", but will score you more points of easily being liked and attracting more Ghanaian friends. However, do not say I told you okay! It will be our little secret.

Together with other Ghanaians, we want to say, "we cannot wait to welcome to our lovely country and say 'akwaaba'".

Wolmi-do

Incheon's representative attraction

In 1918, the Incheon Department designated Wolmi-do as a beach resort, playground, game center, and botanical garden. In summer, because many people from all over the country gathered to enjoy summer vacation, Wolmi Park was established.

Whether it is for children's holidays or common holidays, theme park, café, and raw fish center are crowded with hundreds thousands of people from various places. In weekend, lots of fun performances are held. Either in summer or in winter, lots of people come here to enjoy the sea near Seoul.

Especially, the spectacular sun that sets beautifully as if it is burning the sea is a grandeur sight. The first thing that comes to our mind about Wolmi is the exciting amusement park that is loved as a date course. Exciting music that you enjoy! Fun screams of young people bursting out from various rides! Wolmi-do Amusement Park always makes people become young.

Also, if you go to a café village that is filled with cafes, the cafes' windows are as wide as the sea. It is the right atmosphere to drink tea while admiring the sea, so it is one of the places that is visited by many families and many couples to make special memories.

Not only café village, there is also a raw fish center, so you can enjoy a variety of fresh seafood at a cheaper price.

Whether it is friends, lovers, or families, we hope you can come to Wolmido to eat delicious foods and make good memories.

“Inha is a credible place

- Battushig Ganbold

Hello everyone! This is Battushig Ganbold from Mongolia. I have graduated from Department of Electrical Engineering at Inha University in 2011. Currently I am working in Samsung as electronic engineer.

When I first arrived on campus I was wowed by its warm, full of life, prestigious feeling, and I soon came to love its natural beauty and proximity to Seoul, not to mention its decent location in Incheon. Inha provided a completely engaging environment that was pretty compatible with my personality. I am sure the view of boulevard roads in Inha during spring and autumn is in every alumnus' mind. Whenever I visit Inha campus now, I feel nostalgic and refresh my energy.

Inha is a credible place for the ones who want growth by intense education and be competent individuals for success. I feel thankful to the professors, who have been guiding me, and friends, who helped me through my university years.

Inha not only provides quality education but also gives opportunity for those who want to study well and pursue their aim and achieve more. When you graduate from Inha, a lot of opportunities become available to you. Now I think about Inha I think I had one of the best time of my life along with my best friends, who was just like my family, trying out entirely new things, finding my passion, and exploring life. -Chimedsuren Solongo

Finally, I would love to mention that the time I had in Inha was full of ups and downs. However, I must say, these helped shape my life and made it full of great experiences. In Inha, you are never alone, and when you feel down, all you need to do is, refresh your mind and remind yourself that you are here for a reason. Then, go on and search for that reason, work on it until you make a headway. Last but not the least, I would like to quote a sentence I loved hearing from Koreans. It goes like this, "Study hard and Play even harder".

Hello friends, it has been a while since I graduated and left Inha University with a master degree in Architectural Engineering. However, I still do frequently visit the university to meet my friends and professors. Wait a minute, let's take a journey back in time to when I was in Inha....

I got the Korean government scholarship program which is also known as KGSP, and I must say that I am very grateful for such an opportunity which changed my thoughts and my whole life. I started my graduate studies at Inha University in the department of Architecture engineering after I had studied the Korean language for a year. During my 2 years study period at the university, I can say that I learnt a lot, both academically and socially. I feel I was extremely lucky for having my supervisor/professor in the person of Park Jin-Ho, who encouraged me a lot, believed in my abilities and kept motivating me to do better.

Although I miss my university life, what I miss even more is my social life back on campus. You and I know that as a foreigner, it's hard to adapt to the Korean life and make Korean friends. But I think here is the good point, as a foreigner, you have all the other foreigners in the university as your friends. The thing is, if you were a Korean, you couldn't just smile at another Korean whom you did not know. But, as a foreigner, you can always smile at other foreigners since you are both feel somehow connected. That life was full of excitement. It is like this, most of us were living in the same area and one could never know who you will meet in the street accidentally, aside from their friends. And if you get bored, you could just call anyone and hang out together or have a walk around that beautiful lake in the university. Ow! I so much miss that life!

"Studying at Inha University completely enlightened me and wherever I go, Inha University is the best place in my heart."

Dr. Muhammad Aslam, PhD

Inha University offers an international platform for learning, communication, competition and research. Benefiting from its worldwide and leading role in research, Inha University provides one with an ideal environment for pursuing graduate studies, preparing for an academic career and a life-long journey with science, engineering and technology. The graduate school of Inha University appoints student ambassadors to help with better coordination between the university, potential candidates and existing international students. The Graduate School has appointed 10~15 international graduate students as Inha Student Honorable Ambassadors since 2010. The student ambassadors represent their home countries at Inha and represent Inha University in their home countries as well. These ambassadors are thus expected to strive to improve the quality of Inha University through professionalism, dedication and direct partnership with their home country institutions.

I was appointed a student ambassador in March 2014 and have been involved in different ambassadorship activities since then. This has given me many opportunities to represent my loving country "Pakistan" in different ways. Also, the ambassadorship program allowed me to interact with new people from different cultures of the world. I really enjoyed whenever I meet my fellow ambassadors. The scope of working as a student ambassador is diverse. As a student ambassador, I helped not only the students from Pakistan but also from different countries who applied for admissions during the application period and also the interested students who emailed and contacted me. I have also helped new admitted international students as a mentor to manage housing and other campus activities during their initial settlement. I feel proud to say that the Pakistani community on campus, is one of the most vibrant and strong communities at Inha University. I strongly believe in this quote of Albert Einstein "Try not become a man of success, but rather try to become a man of value". So, along with the great support from my Pakistani friends, I actively participated in Inha cultural festivals, food festivals, and field trips. These kind of events open doors to Koreans as well as others to learn about our cultural heritage, history and our beautiful country. I was also delighted to give a lecture about Pakistan to undergraduate students of Inha University as well as during the annual Inha Student Fellowship (IHF) welcome parties. I have tried to introduce Inha University in Pakistan as well as promoted the graduate school life at different international platforms and social communities such as Facebook, LinkedIn and many others, where thousands of students from different Pakistani universities and all over the world. Besides that I helped spread the information of the school's scholarship opportunity and admission notices through my teachers, friends, seniors and juniors who are studying in different universities in Pakistan. As an ambassador and as part of our editorial team of our newsletter, I published several articles in the newsletter to represent Pakistani culture, history and community. Beside these whenever someone from Pakistani community needed any help, I try to help as early as possible.

Lastly, I would like to offer my sincere gratitude to Ms. Ji-Hee Kim, Mr. Deok-Hwan Cho and Ms. Yejin Jeon for their kind support and close cooperation during my whole period of being an ambassador. It is undeniable that the experience I have as a student ambassador in Inha University will play a vital role in my future endeavors.

Hello friends, I cordially welcome you all to my laboratory. "National research Center for Sexual medicine" under the department of urology is my world. Research work can be boring, disgusting, and is not able to charm life in general. However, there are somethings related to research that can revive the charms of life; inspiration, motivation, passion, enthusiasm, and these I find to be very fulfilling in Lab work. My advisors, Prof. Suh Jun Kyu and Prof. Ryu Ji Kan, two amazing personalities, are the factory of inspiration and make my research experience interesting. The aim of our laboratory is develop a therapeutic strategy to restore erectile function. In other to be successful, all members of the Lab, work together as a team to achieve our goals and aims.

National Research Center for Sexual Medicine

One of my former University seniors, Nanda Dulal Das was the one to introduce Inha University to me, back when I was in Bangladesh. He also went out of his way to help me get admission. After my arrival in Korea, Dr. Nanda was at the airport with a Korean guy named Song Kang Moon to welcome me. They also helped me in getting an accommodation.

Next day, I woke up very early in the morning and went to the Lab where Dr. Nanda introduced me to my lab mates and Professors. I still remember I was a bit worried about the new environment, especially with new people and new laboratory. However, after meeting these people, my way of thinking was changed, as I realized that they were really nice people. But then, there was the situation of how best to cope with the lab work and even worst, Dr. Nanda had to leave Korea the following week, and also, I had to find how best to overcome the language barrier.

Now, let me start explaining the challenging parts of our job and help you get familiar with how things work there. Our lab's basic work is molecular biology and animal study (In-vivo) based. The one who helped me to learn most of the laboratory technique was a nice Chinese guy Professor Dr. Yin Guo Nan. He guided me as a mento and taught me how to measure ICP (Intra cavernous pressure), handle animal but the most important thing I leant from hi was how to gauge western blot and how best to know sophisticated endothelial cells and pericytes culture and tube formation essay. Again, he taught me how best to make mouse nerve injury model and also immunohistochemistry technique, which he learnt from brother Kang-Moon. Another person worth mentioning is Sister Choi Min-Ji, she is an expert in confocal microscopy. She trained me on how to take confocal images. She is also an expert in western blot, PCR and in-vitro study. Sister Kwon Mi Hye also taught me to prepare protein from tissue. Another senior member Woo Jean Kim (PhD) actually, has a vast knowledge on biomedical research field and sometimes I go to him for some special suggestions. I made a good friend (Minh), who sometimes helps me with some of my projects. Anita Limanjaya and Park Jim-Mi are also two friendly members.

As time went by, we became a family who have two guardians; Professor Suh and Professor Ryu, all medical Doctors. They established a friendly environment within the research group and ensured the quality of our researches too. Their proper guidance and instructions makes the work and study easier and very effective.

Finally, our main goal is to contribute to the welfare of the society, through our researches. As such, the team is working intensely to develop approachable methodologies which can contribute to the welfare of mankind.
